

Laurie Brindle has worked at the North County Times in the advertising, marketing and promotion departments for more than 20 years. Currently she is responsible for charitable efforts at the newspaper, including the North County Times Charities Fund, one of 44 community fund partners nationwide of the Chicago-based Robert R. McCormick Tribune Foundation. Most recently, she is coordinating fund raising for the North County Honor Campaign, established to benefit children of troops killed in Operation Iraqi Freedom. Laurie is also responsible for major community events and outreach efforts on behalf of the North County Times.

With a degree in art history from the University of California at Irvine, Laurie is actively involved in the San Diego arts community and travels as often as possible to Europe and the UK.
